

Cashmere Ponchos Are Back on Trend!

Every year, companies set out to discover the newest and best fashion trends to keep their customers looking good and feeling good. Obviously, when deciding upon which clothing items are going to be the most successful, the seasons have quite some influence – you’re not going to wear a big, woolen jumper or poncho through the sweltering heat of summer are you? Well, it depends which kind of wool we’re talking about!

Whilst nobody is under the impression that wearing a cashmere poncho all day long through a heatwave is the best idea, there are still a great many things to consider when shopping for one of these versatile garments.

Firstly: cashmere is not solely a winter garment! Cashmere offers a warm and cosy, yet extremely breathable garment experience. If you decide to go with a cashmere poncho, you could feel comfortable wearing the garment on summer evenings without so much as breaking a sweat. Cashmere garments, especially ponchos, are super easy to pair up with any of your other seasonal fits – it can be worn as a layered piece through each and every season.

Cashmere is slightly pricey, so when looking for your cashmere poncho, you want to ensure you're getting the best bang for your buck and purchasing a piece that is of quality and versatile enough for you to cater to most of your seasonal looks. Finding the perfect piece is essential, so shop around and don't settle, especially for a garment of this status – imagine how you'd look throwing the garment over a t-shirt on autumn days, or a long-sleeved jumper.

The point is, cashmere pieces can be used in a variety of ways to accentuate and complement your already existing seasonal looks. Cashmere ponchos are also now beginning to emerge throughout the clothing industry, taking on different styles and catering to different customer preferences. The designs now vary greatly and whether you're looking for feminine and classy styles of poncho, or something with more of a streetwear feel to it, the cashmere industry definitely has you covered.

It's not just cashmere ponchos either! There are many varieties of cashmere garment to choose from when it comes to spicing up your seasonal lookbook. Most clothing companies now offer V-necks, crewnecks, and even cashmere turtlenecks, to name a few. For those of you afraid of wearing cashmere for want of a shapely fit, don't panic just yet. Today, more than ever, you are easily able to find garments that cater to your body types and are complementary to your specific build. Having said this, loose-fitting clothing is definitely in right now and only gives you more reason to try out one of these luxurious garments on offer. Pairing your baggier cashmere garments with other pieces that are complementary to the oversized look is easier than ever now that inspiration can be found all over the internet and social media!

Consider pairing your baggier cashmere ponchos with a dress of the same length for a date-night, or an oversized shirt for a more casual, staying-in vibe. Many cashmere ponchos can even be paired with other garments to create a professional, office-appropriate outfit to wear when meeting with clients or managers that also looks great! Cashmere can sometimes be quite heavy, however, so be sure to keep this in mind if you're doing a lot of walking – a shoulder bag for your work items may work more in your favour than a backpack in this scenario.

The main reason why cashmere ponchos are back in women's good books is due to how varied the modern cashmere market is. There's a cashmere piece appropriate for all seasons, all settings and they're all super-comfortable at all times! Cashmere ponchos can be formal, casual, or smart-casual and that works very much in their favour. It's important though, if you decide to purchase a cashmere garment, that you take care of the piece adequately. Ensure that you familiarise yourself with proper cleaning practices and make the most out of your durable, versatile new wardrobe piece. Quality cashmere that has been taken care of properly can last years and it is not unheard of for people to pass items down through generations!
